PROLOGUE

The subtle signs of change and progress which are always present on Virginia Intermont's campus gave way in 1966-67 to very obvious and important evidence that the academic process here is neither standing still nor inching forward. Dramatic change in every phase of campus life has characterized the year.

Though spiritual growth remained an integral part of the Intermont girl, she found, in the complete reorganization of the campus religious activities, new avenues down which to travel in her search for the ultimate meaning of life.

Changes in the physical make-up of the college have been made often over the years, but this year saw adopted a whole new concept for the entire campus. The old front gates fell before the bulldozer, construction on a new chapel was begun, and an ultimate plan for all buildings to face a quadrangle began to be more than an architect's drawing.

Not only did new faces appear in the office of the Dean of Students and other administrative offices, but a changed and revitalized interpretation of the function of these offices was present.

Intellectual growth, inherent in the Intermont girl, was fostered and stimulated by a lecture series that presented world-renowned speakers who were on campus for a day, lecturing formally, conducting seminars, and meetting the students face to face as individuals.

Even in the lighter side of life, there was change. The out-of-date "Rat Week" was abolished!

Change was and continues to be evident; but the spirit of Intermont remains and "all her daughters adore her."

"But milk builds strong bones and teeth . . . "

"They say the best thing about going to Emory and Henry is V.I. girls."

The Intermont girl faced a social change and had an opportunity to develop lasting friendships through social events on campus.

Fall Frolics held in October featured a concert with the Jerneymen, a favorite folk-singing group from East Tennessee State. There was also a "mixer" with The Escorts performing.

Thanksgiving gave an opportunity to show a genuine spirit of giving. The girls of each dormitory hall collected food for that hall's basket, which was presented in a special Thanksgiving Chapel Service and later distributed personally to needy families.

The Christmas Formal, held at the Martha Washington Inn on December 10, was sponsored by the Sophomore Class. The Children's Christmas Party brought happiness to one hundred and fifty children and as many Intermont girls. Christmas caroling and club parties set the mood for the true spirit of the holidays which began December 15.

The Freshman Class successfully took its turn at entertainment in February with the Sweetheart Dance. Publications Weekend remains a cherished memory. The dance held in April began the rush of events leading to final exercises. May Day and Graduation left a golden touch to a momentous year . . .

Intermont Students

Mixers bring in the strangest people.

Mrs. Turner and Judi Sumski welcomed students at the President's Tea.

Developed Friendships . . .

"Fourth Hodges is so cool, it's not even fair."

Experienced Spiritual Probing . . .

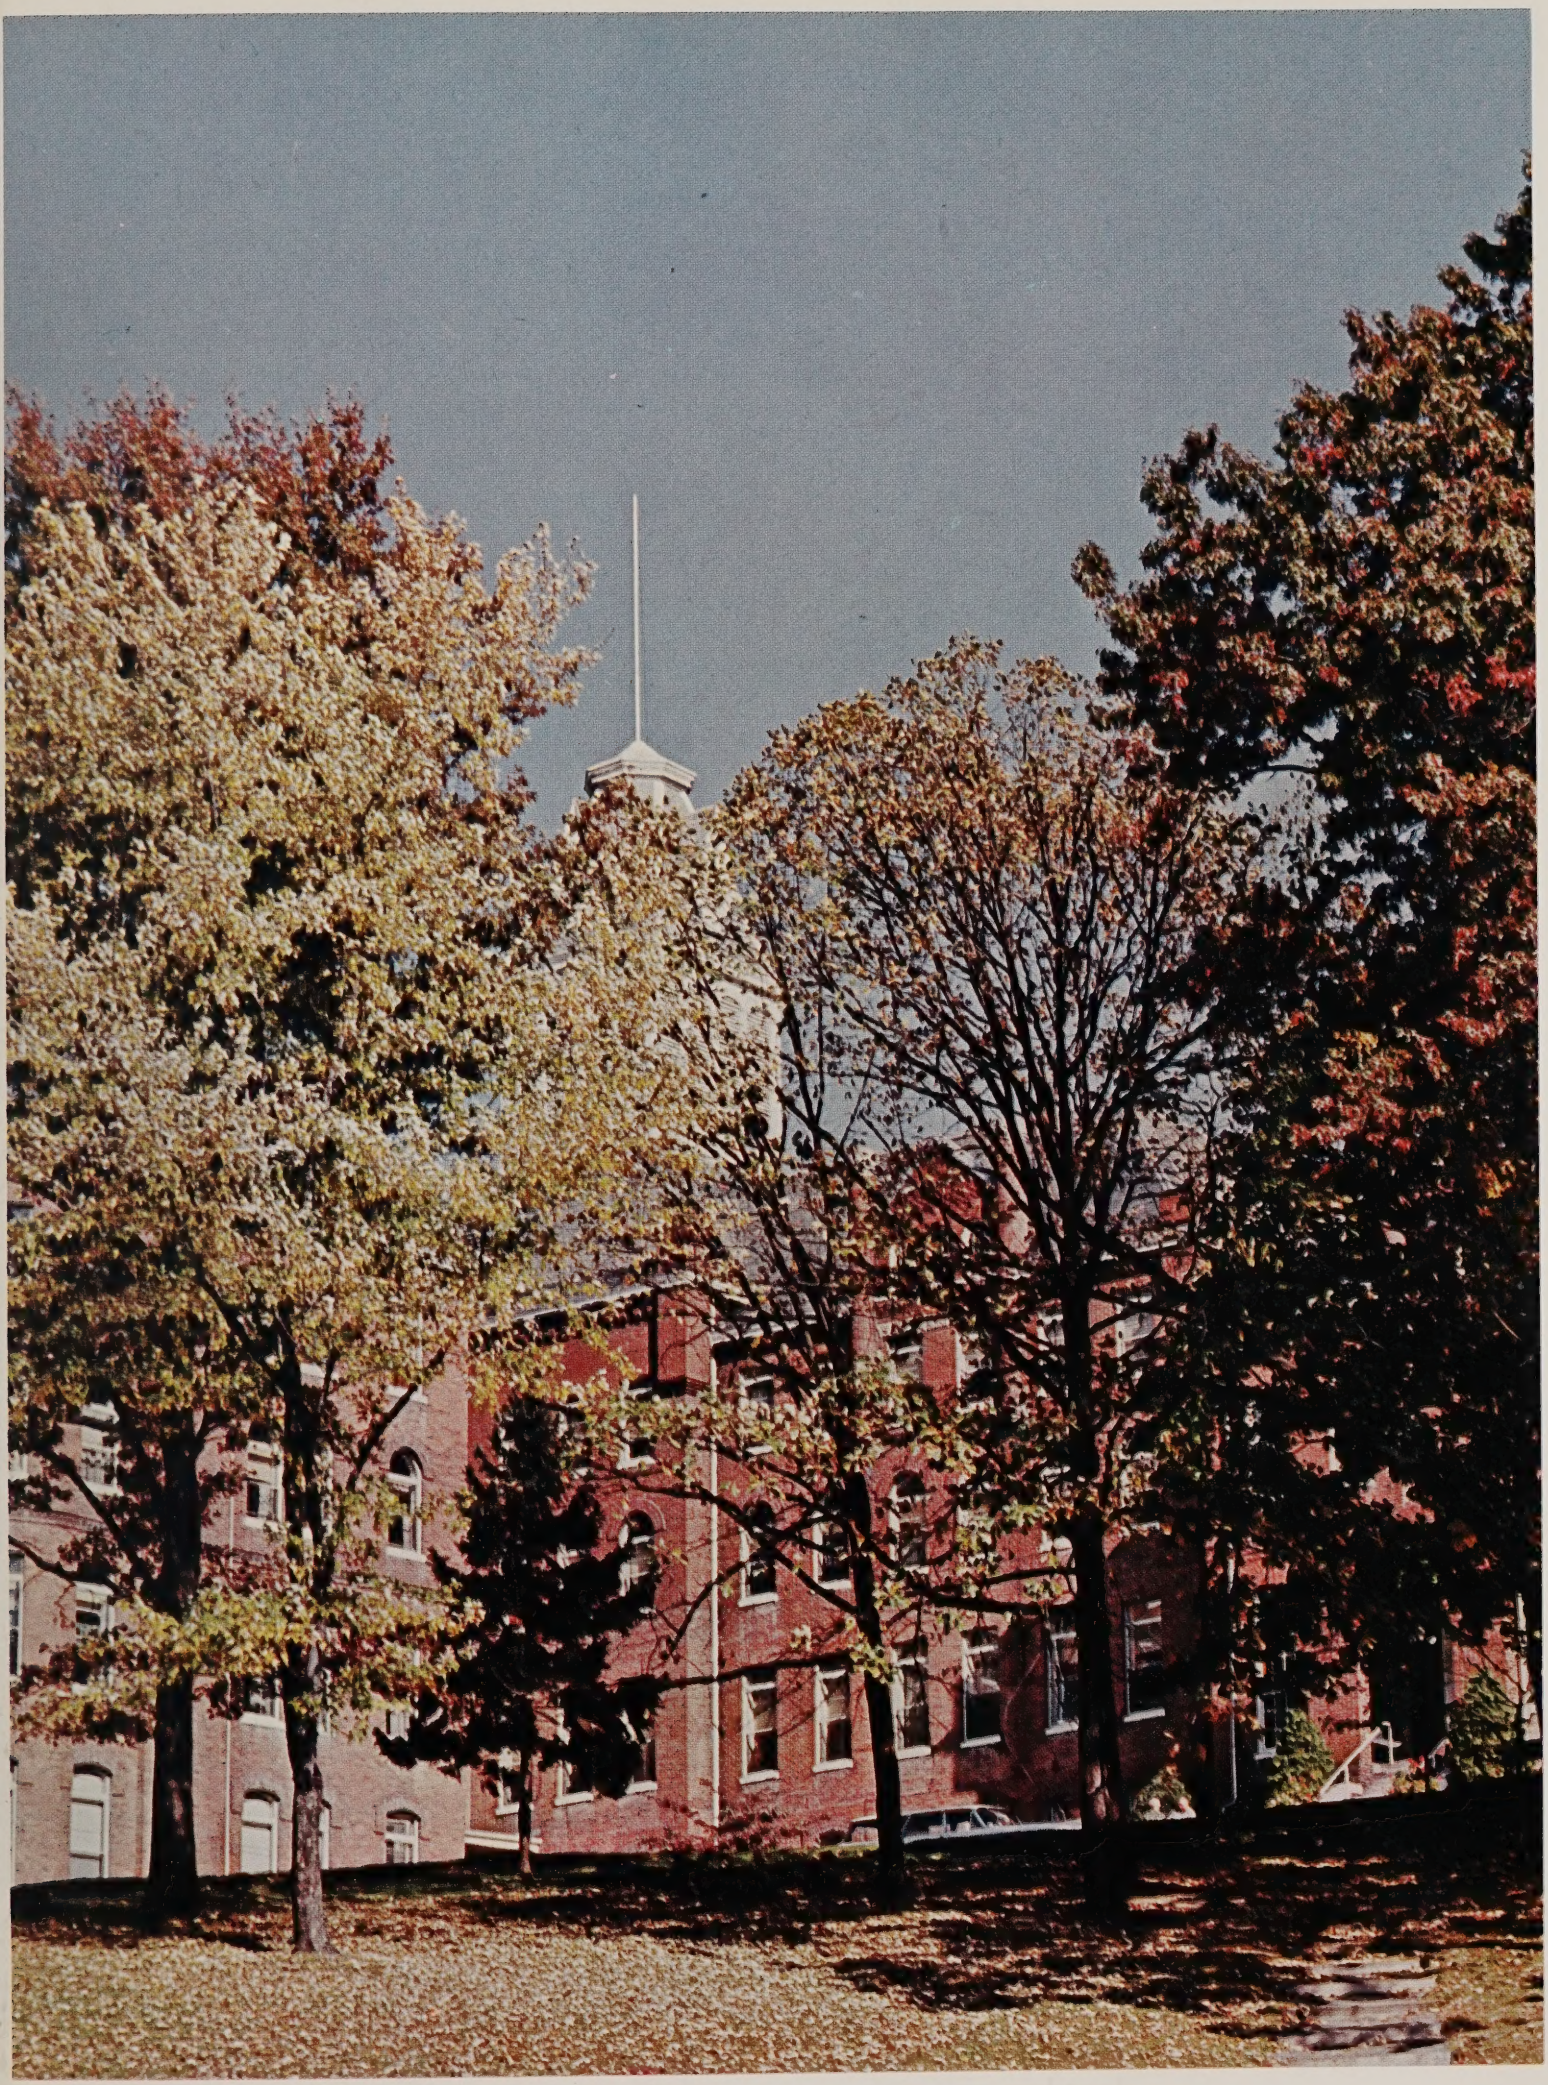
College as a way of life presented as always a spiritual challenge to this year's Intermont girl. For perhaps the first time in her life, she questioned the teachings of her youth. She sought to understand the ultimate meaning of life. At Virginia Intermont she was exposed to valuable opportunities to channel her questioning. Denominational groups, chapel services and seminars, dormitory devotions, courses in religion and philosophy, and relations with Bristol churches and with church parents provided outlets to meet this spiritual challenge.

The busiest cash register in Bristol must be that of V.I.'s book store.

Regression personified.

So this is Intermont?

Maintain your cool, girls.



Now we know who studies.

They'll diet next week.

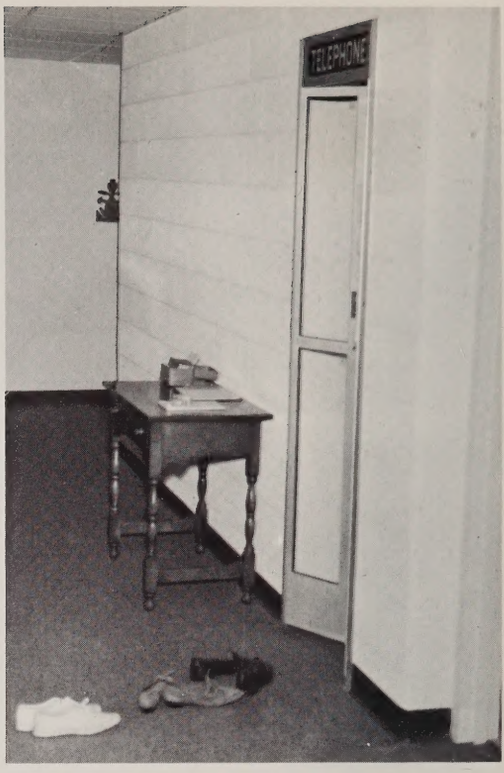
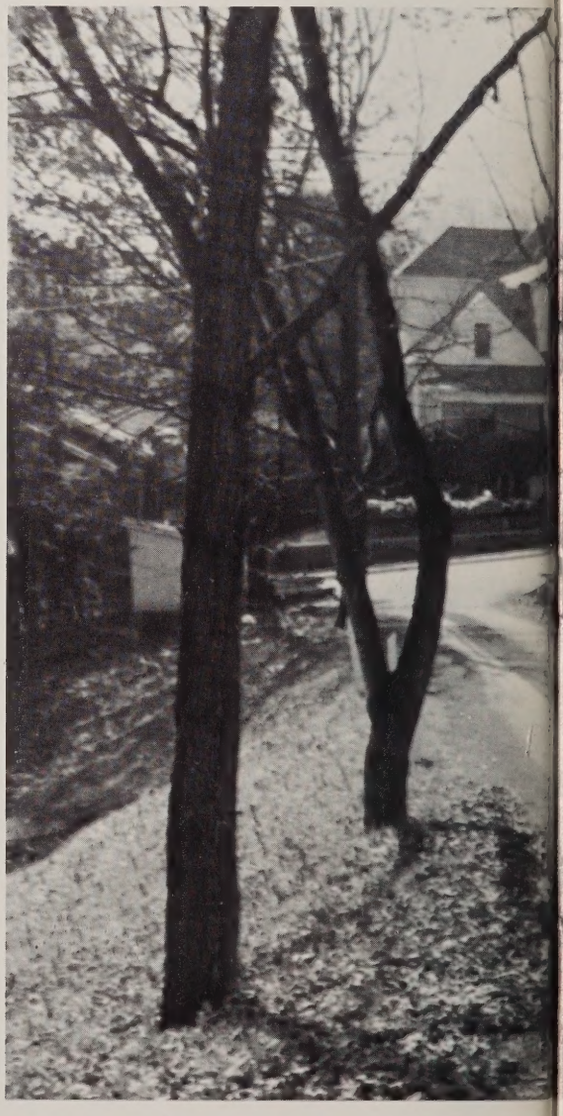
It can't be all that bad.



Who's next for the phone?



Enjoyed Innovations . . .

When the students arrived in September, the most immediately evident changes were in the physical appearance of the campus.

Intermont Hall, a modern six-story structure, housing one hundred eighty students, was soon nicknamed "Hotel Intermont." Former Senior Hall had been converted into the Humanities Building which contained a modern language laboratory, additional classrooms, faculty offices, and a new Guidance Department. Later in the fall, the front campus was transformed into a construction site for a chapel to be completed in the fall of 1967.

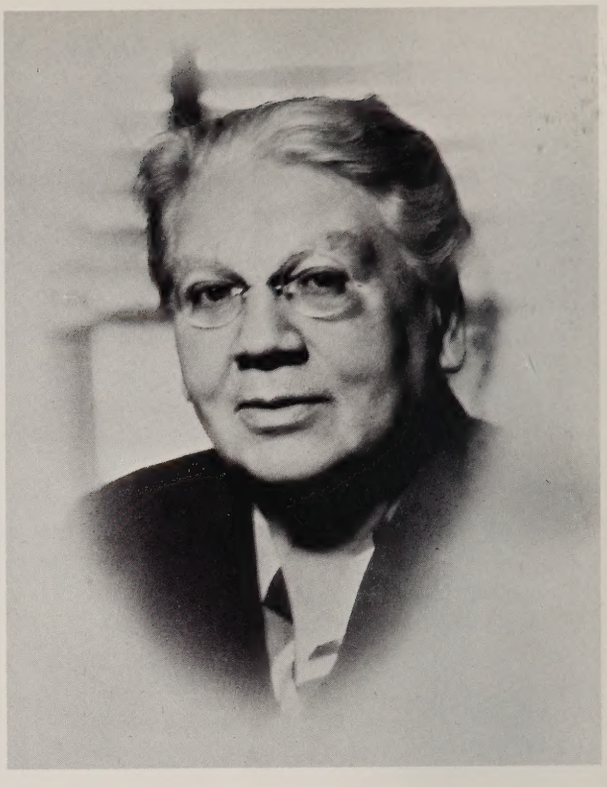
The population explosion brought the enrollment to an all-time high of five hundred and ninety students.

Miss Peggy Hart, Dean of Students, and Mr. Kenneth Glass, Guidance Director, were welcomed as new administrative members.

The "Ideal Intermont Girl" and the Dean of Women, 1906 style, Miss Frogge and Miss Hart, played the roles at the Halloween Party.

With major construction on campus, a temporary entrance was built.

The cast of "As You Like It" posed after a highly successful production put on by the Drama Department November 3-5. Elaborate costuming and fine acting characterized the production.



Countess Alexandra Tolstoy spoke to students on communism October 19. She created genuine interest and enthusiasm for her fight against communist tyranny.

While Growing

Mail time is mob time, especially with a letter in your box to clean out the cobwebs.

Each new experience created new thoughts and questions. The Intermont girl learned the value of classroom interaction. The personal teacher-student relationship found at Virginia Intermont became a meaningful part of college life.

A valuable lecture series organized by Miss Barbara Frogge, Director of Student Life, brought such outstanding speakers as Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, Mr. Bill Sands, Dr. Joyce Brothers, Dr. Wernher Von Braun, and others to the campus. Seminars led by these guests stimulated the exchange of ideas in an informal atmosphere and contributed to intellectual growth.

Art exhibits and special performances added to the intellectual growth of the Intermont girl. The fall of the year included such outstanding groups as The Singing Boys of Monterey, "The Little Angels" of Korea, and the American Classical Theatre's production of "The Tempest." The Tuscon Arizona Boys Chorus entertained for Parents Weekend in February. The Varel and Bailly Chanteurs de Paris performed a pop concert in March.

Intellectual growth comes in subtle ways. The moment of clear understanding of a concept is the most rewarding of all.

It's like taking a shower every hour.

The eagerness of a dedicated man is shown as Mr. Ward enters the Fine Arts Building.

Cool, calm, and collected Mr. Ward observes a new technique executed by one of his students, B. J. Davis.

MR. JOSEPH WARD

It has been said that a teacher affects eternity; therefore, he can never tell where his influence stops. There is one among us who—in his dedication to art and to the creative teaching of it, in his understanding of and interest in students, and in his personal and professional integrity—is just such an influential teacher.

It is with a deep sense of gratitude and with highest esteem that, we, the Class of 1967, dedicate the 1967 Intermont to Mr. Joseph Ward.

DR. FLOYD V. TURNER
President of the College

The Challenge Ahead:

Never has the need for leadership in all areas of human relations been as great as it is now. In direct proportion, the opportunity for dedicated women to assume influential roles in our society has never been as great. You have just begun. If you are to accept the challenge of living lives that are meaningful, not only to those around you, but also to yourselves, you must continue to build on the foundation which has already been established.

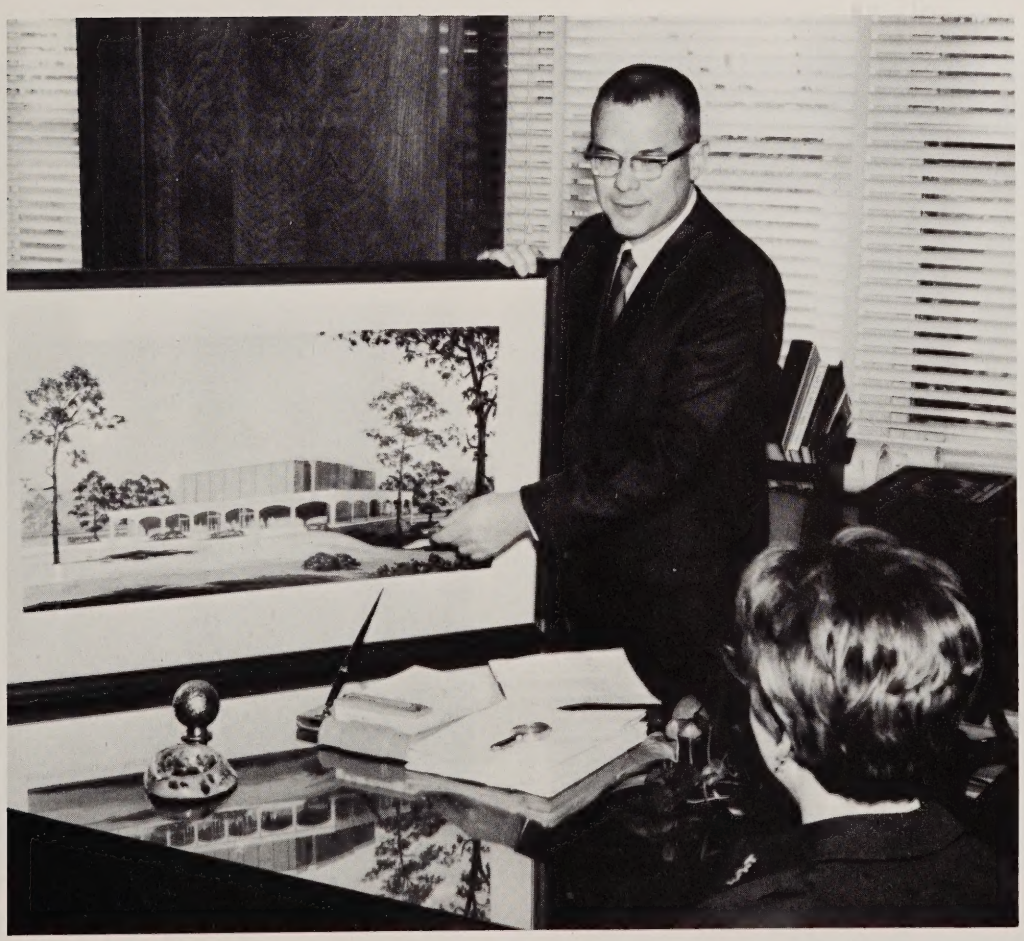
It is my hope that you will honestly and sincerely apply the abilities which you now have to the tasks which lie ahead. Only such personal dedication would be worthy of what you have accomplished thus far.

My very best wishes to you for the future.

Cordially,

Floyd V. Turner

This was the eleventh year that Dr. and Mrs. Turner have been at Virginia Intermont.



Dr. Turner points out the Harrison-Jones Memorial Hall now under construction.

MISS PEGGY HART
Dean of Student Personnel

For the day and world in which we live, the ageless concepts of loyalty and freedom are emerging out of historical survival into the forefront of present thought. Freedom within loyalty now exists on the cutting edge of human relationships, and from your own vantage point such freedom offers new beginnings to present terminations. Your educational pilgrimage will continue to be filled with just such beginnings.

Discovery of newness in the old, beginnings in ends, meaningfulness in void, and freedom within the bounds of loyalty—this has been your rendevous with truth. You have contributed to it and received from it in such a way that the next step becomes that of exploring deeper depths and higher heights within yourself, within others, and with God.

As you depart your personage will be missed, your contribution of self long remembered and cherished.

The services of the staff personnel of the College run the gamut from food preparation to care of over twenty thousand volumes in the Library. In addition, the secretarial services, often taken for granted, are amazingly complex, even on the small college campus. It would surprise one to see the number of maintenance requests that find their way to Mr. Roberts' box! It is indeed no simple matter to arrange the away-from-class details in the lives of five hundred ninety students in the school year 1966-1967.

Creative Writing

Although Mark Twain once said, "A classic is something that everyone wants to have read," this was proved untrue in the English Department this year. The writings of the literary giants were opened to the Intermont girl in such a way that she wanted to read them.

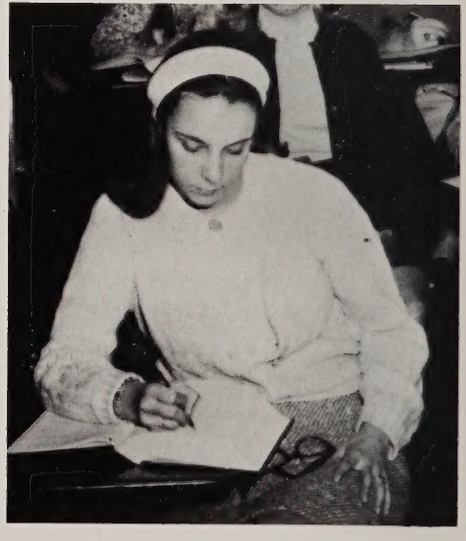
English history and literature went hand-in-hand in the Sophomore classes, with the Sunday afternoon exhibits from the C. Ernest Cooke Collection paralleling the literary period being studied.

Freshmen strove to develop originality, naturalness of expression, and correctness in both written and spoken English. Much of this training was concentrated in the preparation of a formal, detailed research paper.

Classes in both creative and journalistic writing were popular; and publication media were provided by Cothurnus, the literary magazine, and The Cauldron, the campus newspaper.

The student-teacher conferences, which helped to individualize teaching in the English Department, were very effective.

The Library offers 21,000 volumes for parallel reading, term papers, and personal enjoyment.



The Freshman English course is designed so that the student may learn the skills of expression and organization.

German was offered for the first time in the language program. The instructor, Mr. Willem Bertsch, is also conductor of the Kingsport Symphony Orchestra. Elementary, intermediate, and conversational French and Spanish were offered. Conversational courses exposed students to linguistic experiences in everyday French and Spanish. Areas of emphasis for all the foreign languages were grammar, composition, selected readings, and pronunciation.

Religion and Philosophy

Courses in the study of the Bible are designed with a critical, historical approach.

Religion and Philosophy

To remove unrealistic sentimentalism from the student's thinking and to show a realistic relationship between man and man as well as man and God were the objectives of courses offered in religion and philosophy.

Helping to attain these objectives were studies in the History of the Old Testament and of the New, in Christian denominations and in the world's other great religions, in ethics, in logic, and in history of philosophy.

With the guidance of Dr. Taylor and Mr. Tolson, the student developed her power of reasoning and sought answers to religious and philosophical questions.

A study of Old and New Testament history is divided into two courses. They give an enlightened view of these historical works.

To what extent do heredity and environment affect man's actions? What are the causes of war? What are the reasons for our political myths? How does geography influence man's behavior? These and many more questions are areas of discussion and probing for students of the social sciences.

History, sociology, psychology, geography, economics and political science presented vital information about our culture. Courses in the social sciences challenged students to become good citizens and to search for answers to social problems.

Both American History and Western Civilization were offered two semesters each. Introduction to Sociology, Social Problems, and Marriage and the Family involved the study of the group. General psychology and child psychology courses involved the study of the individual. Maps, climatic and weather conditions, and population distribution were stressed in Introduction to Geography, a two-semester course. Political Science was divided into State and Local Government, offered one semester, and Federal Government, another semester. The Constitution was studied in depth in Political Science. Retailing, marketing, and principles of Economics dealt with production, distribution, and consumption of goods in the American economy.

Films, group studies and reports, research papers, and parallel reading of current magazines and newspapers were widely used in the social sciences.

The swimmer, the equestrian, the dancer, the golfer, the bowler—these were a few of the many enthusiasts to be found in the vast program of physical education. There were programs in swimming and diving and in life saving; in ballet, modern, tap, social, and folk dance; in training in horsemanship and in stable management and the teaching of equitation.

Many activities such as archery, tennis, hockey, basketball, golf, and bowling as well as courses in personal health contributed to the development of a healthy body and a sense of sportsmanship—the goals of the physical education program.

Sandals, beat, and beards, the proverbial symbols of the art world, were not applicable this year to a hard-working, sensitive group on Intermont's campus. Through major programs in Fine and Applied Art, these students prepared for careers in fashion and interior design, commercial drawing, advertising design, teaching, and many other fields.

Exhibits of the art of students, instructors, and local artists, as well as of items from Virginia Museum Collections were held throughout the year. The C. Ernest Cooke collection, containing some 20,000 paintings, manuscripts, books, sculptures, and carvings, is a source of pride for the Art Department as much as for Virginia Intermont College.

Intensive training in secretarial science was directed toward developing stenographers, secretaries, medical secretaries and office assistants prepared to meet the competition in today's world of business. The program recognized the need for sufficient training beyond the skill subjects of shorthand and typewriting to enable the student to accept the responsibilities given to her by business executives and supervisors. Courses in the liberal arts were recommended to secretarial majors to enhance success through a well-rounded education.

Transcription, accounting, business law, medical transcription, and business communications were advanced courses of skill and study. Medical office practice offered the medical secretarial student the opportunity to learn the specialized duties of a medical secretary in a local physician's office.

Members of the Foods and Nutrition classes served teas and a spring banquet to the faculty during the year. Both the student who plans to become a homemaker and the one who expects to train others after further study are included in the program.

The importance of the well-being of the family is emphasized in Home Economics. This valuable experience promotes economy and good health for these future wives, mothers, and teachers.

Drama and Speech

The art of self-expression through drama and speech is a continuous creative process on Virginia Intermont's campus.

Drama productions on and off campus this year included As You Like It, in which faculty members took male roles, The Father, two one-act plays directed by students, and The Enchanted Marshmallow, a children's play presented in the Bristol area elementary schools. Drama students did all the work on sets, costumes, and make-up for productions under the direction of Mr. Swanson.

Public speaking, debate, oral interpretation of literature, and classes in voice and diction and speech correction constitute the wide variety offered in the speech curriculum.

The V.I. debate team competed with V.P.I. and other colleges at the Junior Debate Tournament held at Middle Tennessee State University. Under the sponsorship of Phi Rho Pi, the Women's Forensic Tournament was held at V.I.

Ring out, as the chimes ring out;
Friendships build and grow, they'll never fade promises made.
A smile, a childish whim for wanting
An extended hand in darkest night leads me to light.
The light to . . .

My understanding has really grown since I've been here
And all around me, love has removed all my fears.
Then being greeted with a great big,
"Hi, hello there,"
My life has meaning knowing you care.

Now as we look out, all of our future will measure
Radiant light that will help us to visualize
All of the great times, truest of friends will treasure.
With the awareness Intermont gives;
V.I. continues to live

Building a future foundation that will never know how to fall.
Strengthening character to keep morals tall.
We sing

Nil Sine Numine . . . will ever guide our many ways.
Within our hands the key unlocks unknown eternity.
The lamp will help us throughout the night.
The star will lead us onward, this way is shining bright.
The chapters of our lives are rich where honor thrives,

Up-holding the tradition we have known reveals our dreams.
As we walk down the pathway of daily life the future seems Glowing with anticipation of needing
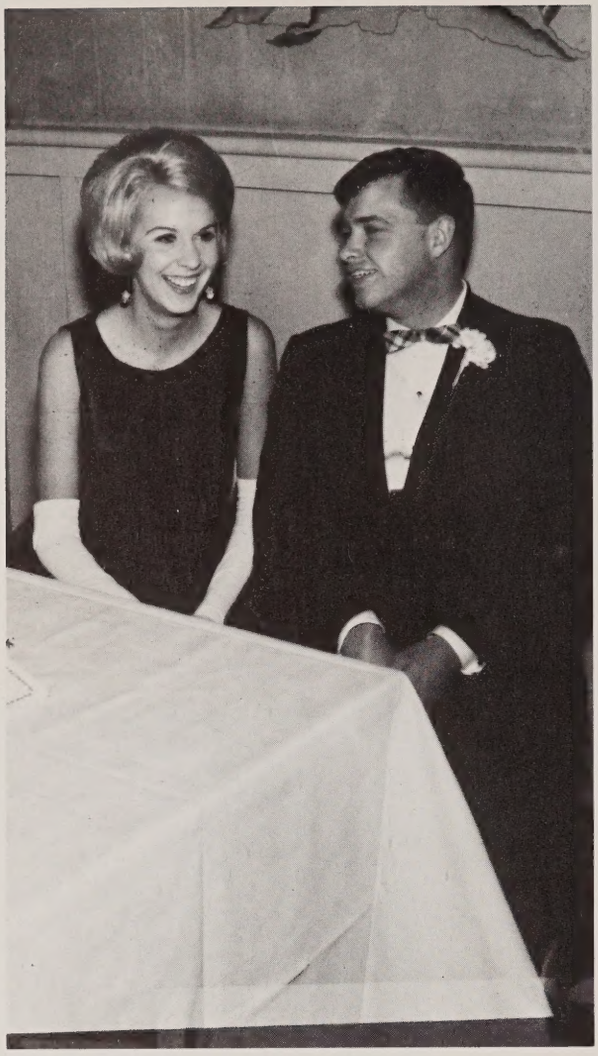
A life of wealth in spirit free
Our love to you, V. I. C.

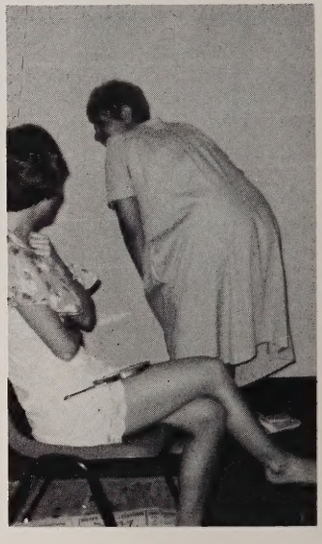


They certainly seem to be enjoying themselves.

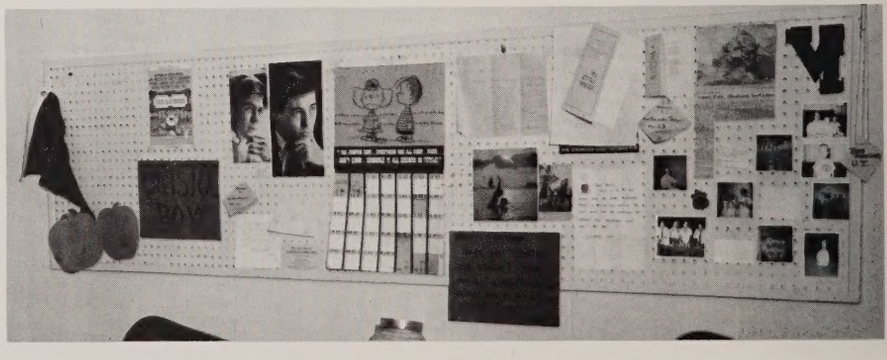
I hope I don't have to wait much longer.

"Mon Cherie"

What in the world can she be doing?

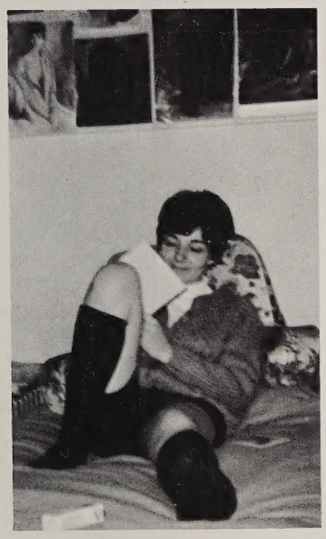


Up, down, up, down

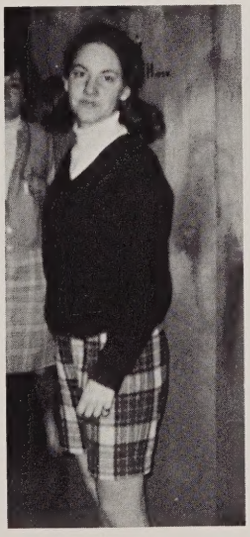


Surprise, a neat bulletin board!

Did she really do that?



A letter for Dick



I'm so cool!

I'll clobber you!

Student Government Association

The Student Government Association, of which all students are members, has a representative body of twenty-seven students with its sponsor, Miss Peggy Hart. As a disciplinary body, these campus leaders promote integrity, honor, and school spirit among the students through faculty-student cooperation.

The association established a committee to welcome all new students, the orientation program, in the fall. Another activity of this elected body was the annual Parents' Weekend, held February 17 to 19. This occasion provided an opportunity for parents to meet and talk with the administration and faculty and to attend campus functions.

Student Life Committee

The newly formed Student Life Program, under the direction of Miss Barbara Frogge, and the Student Life Committee, unified the spiritual, social, and cultural activity of student campus life. These seven students played an active role of leadership and responsibility throughout the year.

Chapel programs and seminars, featuring renowned professionals in a wide range of fields, were led by members of the Student Life Committee. All social activities, including "mixers," Winter Carnival, Spring Frolics, May Day, and many others were organized by the Committee. Members welcomed performing guests on campus and ushered at performances of the Fine Arts Series. The committee members, disguised as reindeer, entertained for the Children's Christmas party with V. I.'s "Santa," Mr. Roberts.

Membership in the Student Life Committee is restricted to sophomores. The members are selected by the Chairman and the Director of Student Life.

The Baptist Student Union of Virginia Intermont is a distinctive student program, which is promoted by the Southern Baptist Convention. The B.S.U. serves as a link between Baptist students on college campuses and the local church. The organization is student-led, church related, and Christ-centered.

The organization sponsored a Christmas party for the Janie Hammitt Home. Conventions held at Eagle Eyrie, Virginia, and Louisville, Kentucky, were well supported activities. Dinner meetings brought the group together, and baby-sitting jobs raised funds for the Summer Mission Program.

The Canterbury Club, the Episcopal organization, was composed of over ninety members. The group was responsible for bringing Holy Communion to Intermont's campus on religious holidays and during Lent.

The traditional Peanut Week, sponsored by Canterbury Club, occurred in February. This week of secret-pal fun is planned to build new friendships among the students.

This new realm in Catholic liturgy was brought to Intermont's campus in February. The club sponsored mass was open to all students with full explanation for non-Catholics.

Members held a surprise Christmas party at the convent for the nuns of St. Anne's Parish and were dinner guests of the ladies of the parish in February.

United Religious Association

The United Religious Association is an organization of fellowship for those denominations not represented by a separate group on campus. The Jewish faith as well as Christian Science, Greek Orthodox, Lutheran, and others are represented.

URA's program for 1966-1967 included speakers from the Mormon and Unitarian Churches, discussion periods, dinner meetings, participation in the remodeling of a prayer room, and a Christmas party for the local orphanage. In the spring URA members were hosts at an Easter Egg Hunt for Bristol children. The year was ended with a picnic outing.

Methodist students compose the Wesley Foundation on campus. Under the sponsorship of Miss Brooks, the group created a warm college fellowship. One of the most meaningful projects of the Wesley Foundation was its "adoption" of orphans from the Janie Hammitt Home. Through work with the Bristol Juvenile Detention Home, members gained further experience and sympathy for less fortunate youth. Group discussions stimulated religious thought and questions. Constructive work went toward the remodeling of the prayer room on campus.

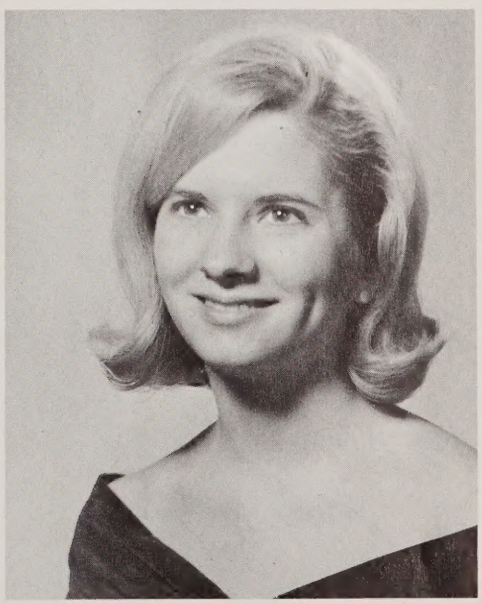
Westminster Fellowship

A religious organization for Presbyterians, Westminster Fellowship created just what its name implies—fellowship. In conjunction with King College at the First Presbyterian Church or on campus, the group held meetings twice each month. Under the leadership of the officers and planning board, group discussions, spiritually stimulating movies, and both Christmas and Easter communion services were well-supported activities. Fellowship grew with a spring picnic.



President of Westminster Fellowship, Judi Stewart

Devotions Committee

Consisting of students who have shown leadership ability in the area of religious activities on campus, the Devotions Committee brought unity to the six religious organizations.

Exceptional ability in organization was shown by the Monday evening dormitory devotional program. Well-planned programs offered time for spiritual thought for students. Special speakers from the faculty and from Bristol churches were guests for devotions during the year. The Devotions Committee assisted the Student Life Committee at chapel services and in an advisory capacity.

Cothurnus Staff

Cothurnus, the literary magazine which is published twice during the school year, is a presentation of original prose and poetry written by the students and faculty. This two-year-old magazine gives the contributors a chance to express creativity and provides the readers an opportunity to enjoy results of this creativity. The student body controls completely the contributions to and publication of the magazine.

The Intermont staff and advisors, witnesses of great progress on their campus, sought to convey the deeper meaning of this concept through the 1967 Intermont.

Through diligent and sensitive work, staff members gained valuable experience in relations with the administration, faculty, and students on campus.

The inevitable deadlines brought occasional chaos, but when the job was finished the staff felt deep gratitude for such an opportunity and satisfaction from a job well-done.

Orchesis

Orchesis, the moden dance company on campus, strives for creative student participation by holding tryouts in the fall before a committee composed of officers and senior members. The activities of the club throughout this year consisted of: a dance routine in the Fall Talent Show; the Orchesis show, "So This is the City," presented during Parents Weekend; local performances; and a dance routine in the graduation activities. The members meet weekly and the main purpose of this company is to enjoy the experience of dance as a creative and performing art.

The club participated in the Aquatic Arts Symposium at the University of Tennessee in February. "The Wonderful World of Water," a tour of the countries of the world, was the theme of the water show held in March. Some of the numbers were "Seals of Greenland," "Bull Fight in Spain," and "Exotic India." A house party for the members ended the year.

Promoting enthusiasm and fun among riding students who love horses is the main objective of the Boots and Saddle Club, one of the largest clubs on campus.

Two lively gymkhanas in November provided entertaining team and individual competition with a rollicking musical sacks game. The club's Christmas party and spring banquet united the members in friendship and fun. The annual trip to the Kentucky Derby, sponsored by the club, was enjoyed by over thirty five members. The Horse Show, held Graduation Week, combined hunt- and saddle-seat riders for equitation classes and for such varied events as a pair class and a precision drill team.

A trip to White Top Mountain and a showing of the movie, "A Thousand Days," about the late President Kennedy, were other club activities.

The Young Republicans

The Young Republican Club on campus has been more active this year than ever before. Among some of the activities participated in this year were a ski weekend to Mt. Phi Beta is a national professional music, speech, and drama fraternity. Virginia Intermont has the distinction of being one of only two junior colleges in the nation to have a chapter of Phi Beta. The purposes of Phi Beta are to promote the best in music, speech, and drama; to live a life of service; and to seek and develop the highest type of womanhood.

Phi Beta members worked with the juvenile home in Bristol and visited the Veteran's Hospital in Johnson City, Tennessee, this year. On campus the group provided music for dormitory devotions, appeared in student concerts, and gave individual recitals throughout the year.

Its members, elected on the basis of professional ability and interest as well as scholarship, gave an annual scholarship award to an outstanding student in the freshman class.

The group held the annual Virginia Intermont College Women's Forensic Tournament April 22, inviting representatives from colleges in the five-state area around Bristol.

Three representives attended the Phi Rho Pi National Forensic Tournament held in Odessa, Texas, in the spring of 1966. Modesto, California, was the goal of this hard-working group for the National Tournament held May 3 to 8.

The Areannes, under the leadership of Dottie Ross, are the day students at Virginia Intermont. They worked on the welcoming committee by meeting the boarding students at the station and by making them feel at home. The club had a Thanksgiving food basket project, and in the spring members ushered at graduation.

Nostrae Filiae

Nostrae Filiae, meaning "our daughters," is the club for daughters and grand-daughters of former Virginia Intermont students. This organization assisted with the details of Registration; it provided guided tours during Alumnae Weekend; at Christmas-time the girls "adopted" children for a Christmas party. Other activities of the club included an open house and tea at the home of Mrs. George Bundy, an Intermont alumna who is now a popular member of the faculty. In the Spring, the local Alumnae Association invited the members to a picnic at Steele Creek Park.

Fire Wardens

Beverly Hamilton, Fire Chief, plays the role to the hilt.

Fire wardens promoted fire safety on campus by supervision of fire drills and enforcement of fire prevention rules. This year the wardens, composed of a representative from each floor, were under the leadership of Beverly Hamilton. The group participated actively in Fire Prevention Week, which was held in October. The safety-conscious fire wardens made students aware of the need for a fireproof year.

Phi Theta Kappa

Phi Theta Kappa is a junior college honor scholarship society which is equivalent, in general, to Phi Beta Kappa for four-year colleges. Chapters are established in fully accredited junior colleges of the highest rank.

Members in Phi Theta Kappa is the highest award any student at Virginia Intermont can receive for over-all academic excellence. Sophomores having a minimum 2.0 (B) average are eligible for membership, and the top five freshman students who have maintained this average into the spring of the year are also eligible.

Eleanor Bryant, who had the highest academic average of her class, served as president of Phi Theta Kappa this year. The group sponsored a dinner in the spring to initiate new members, but the most important "activity" of this group is getting into it!

In its first year, Intermont's intermural field hockey team showed much spirit and success.

The team played in the Junior College Hockey Tournament at Stratford College, October 29. Though unexperienced in competitive games, the team defeated Ferrum College with a score of 3 to 0 and lost to Stratford with a score of 2 to 1. In local competition, V.I. defeated Sullins College in two games.

Anne Weaver, halfback, and Linda Beauvais, left inner, both qualified for the Regional Tournament held in Harrisonburg, Virginia.

Basketball Team

In an all-out struggle, Intermont's Basketball Team will win every time.

After a most successful basketball season, the V.I. Basketball Team finished with ten wins and only one loss.

High scorers for the season included Trudy Donnon with a 25-point average per game and Anne Weaver with a 16-point average per game. Carol Novaks led the defense play with an exceptional rebounding percentage.

Competitive Equitation

Trudy Donnon, Champion of the V.I. Horse Show, was presented the trophy by Dr. Turner.

Among the competitive events in the riding department were two gymkhanas in the fall and the Commencement Horse Show.

The two successful gymkhanas were held November 6 and 13. Events such as the Apple Bob, Potato Race, Obstacle Race, and Musical Sacks brought exciting competition and fun for all. Both team and individual participation called for careful manipulation of the horses.

The annual V.I. Horse Show opened Commencement Weekend on June 2. Ribbons and a trophy were awarded winners of each class in equitation and in a pair class. The precision drill team offered a handsome spectacle. The Horse Show ended with an hilarious game of Musical Sacks.

Eight vivacious promoters of school spirit and sportsmanship made up Intermont's cheerleading squad. The freshmen cheerleaders with their sophomore captain, Susan Whalen, added pep to basketball, volleyball, speedball, and field hockey games at V.I. and at off-campus games.

New tailor-made uniforms were designed by the squad this year. For the first time sophomore and freshman squads were joined into one. Tryouts were held in October, and members were chosen on the basis of competitive ability.

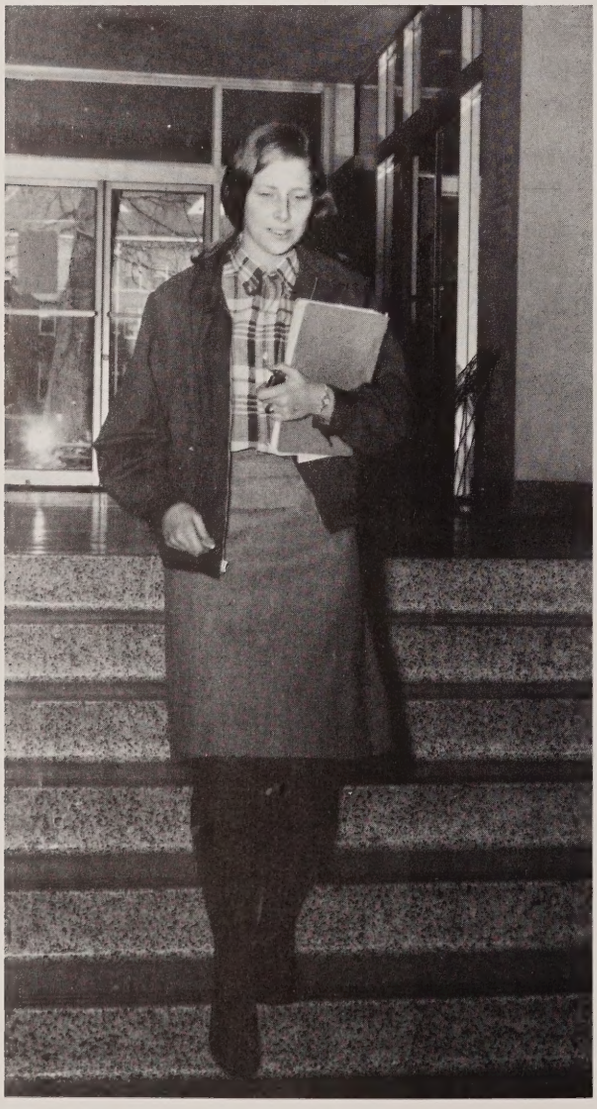
Our little drummer boy

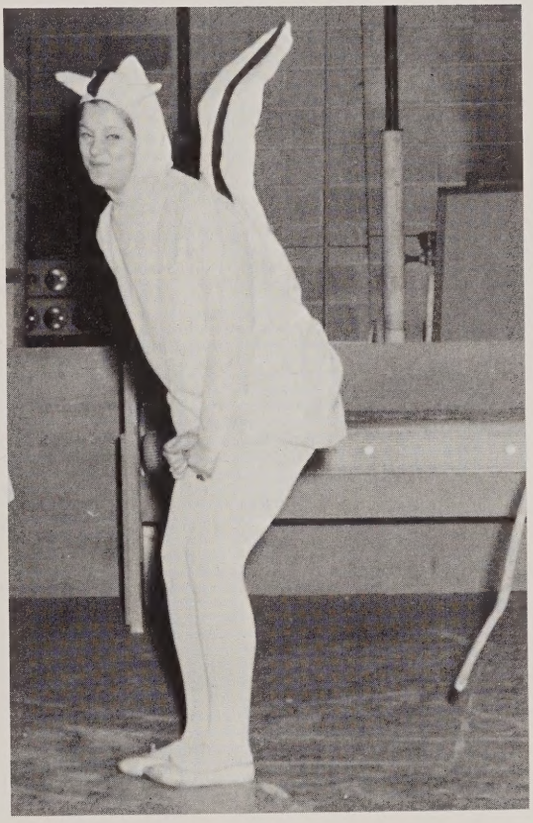


Be certain not to step on strings!

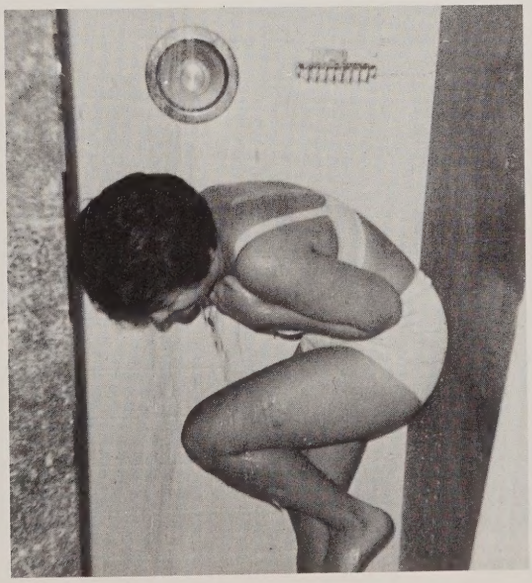
What is this thing anyway?

Well, I'm here

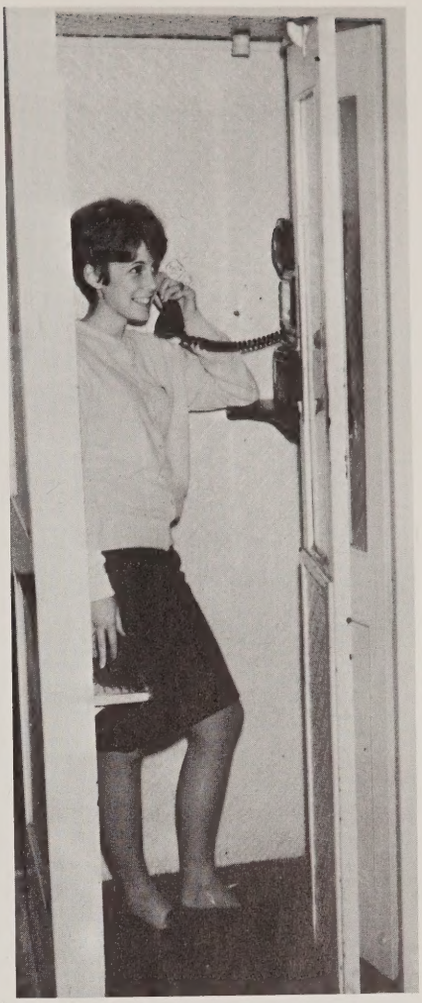
"Passion Pink"



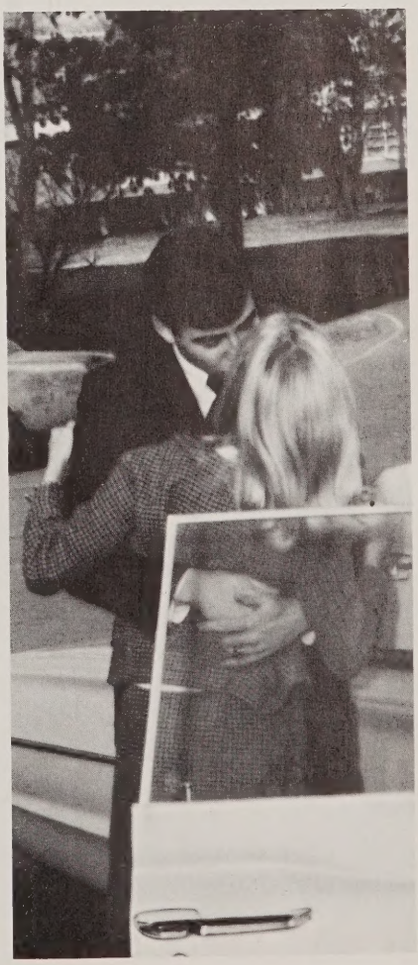
I smell like Shalimar



She's pinned! No, she's lavaliered! No, she's pinned???



"Yes, Jay"



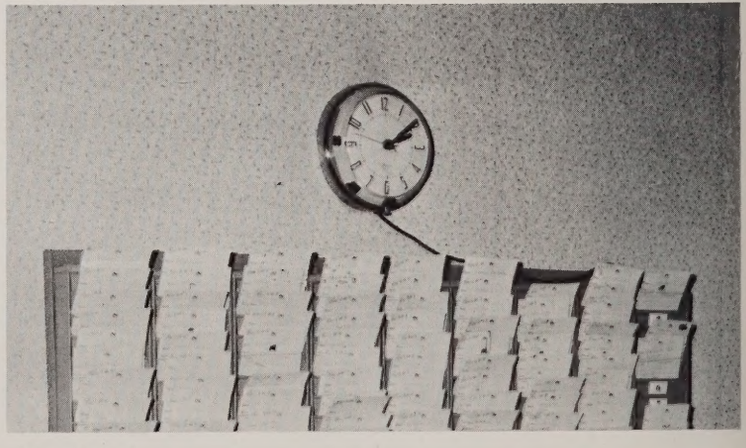
Two reprimands, Miss Smith

"Big man on Campus"

Mr. Swanson just got a good "yuk."

Serenity

Food for "the Vacuum"



A little late, huh?

Typical expression of P.E. majors

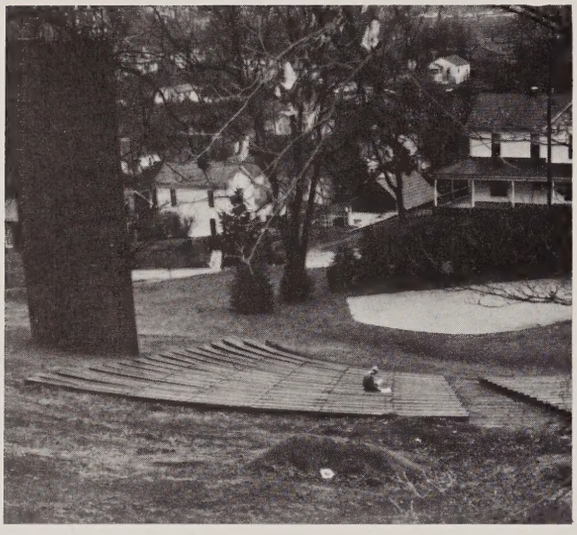
So, you think so, huh?

The "queen" serves again!

Freshmen, cutting class?

"Marsha Bod"

A campus filled with wonderful memories



Alone, for a few quiet moments

Our tower

Many hours of work are represented in a yearbook, and this, your 1967 INTERMONT would not have been here had it not been for the work of numerous people.

I would first like to thank my advisors, Mr. Joseph Ward and Miss Mary Lou Smith. Both have endured long and tedious hours of constant work, Miss Smith, proofreading and Mr. Ward, keeping the staff on the move, checking layouts and many other details.

Secondly, I would like to say "Thank you" to my staff for being most capable and cooperative. They are to be highly commended for a job well executed.

Also, I wish to thank Mr. Richard Dickerson, our photographer, who has spent many long hours taking, developing, and printing pictures.

Finally, I would like to show my appreciation, by saying thank you to everyone else on campus, faculty and students alike, for their cooperation throughout the year.

Although this is the ending page of the '67 INTERMONT, I hope that you will find it to be only the beginning of many memories to look upon. My staff and I have endeavored to make this, the '67 INTERMONT, the best yearbook Virginia Intermont has ever had; and I hope that we may have reached our goal.

Best Wishes in the future.
